THIS ‘N’ THAT

Susan Block Schwartz (LAI doctoral student) is the 2004 recipient of the Dorothy B. Millard Award from the Child Care Coalition of the Niagara Frontier. This award goes to an individual who has demonstrated an ongoing commitment to improving the lives of children and families. The individual selected may or may not be a child care provider and the award criteria includes: leadership and creativity, exemplary personal and professional achievement, responsiveness to the needs of families and the community, advocacy on behalf of early care and education issues in general and to child care and family issues in Western New York in particular, and consistent support for high quality early care and education.

Karen Bridbord (Ph.D., 2004, CSEP) received a post-doctoral fellowship from the William Alanson White Institute, New York, NY for 2004-2005. Bridbord has also been named an Emerging Leader from the Association for Specialists in Group Work for 2004.

Hank Bromley (ELP) and two co-founders have established Buffalo Naturals LLC, a company to make and sell all-natural soaps, marketed on a “keep your money in Buffalo” basis, with a percentage of the proceeds donated to community development and education projects. In addition, Education/technology/power: Educational computing as a social practice, an edited book by Bromley and Michael W. Apple (originally published in1998 by SUNY Press), has been translated into Chinese.

Sharon Brooks (ELP doctoral student) has received a 2004-2005 Barbara L. Jackson Scholars Award. This honor represents the first cadre of outstanding students of color enrolled in University Council for Educational Administration (UCEA) member educational leadership and policy doctoral programs who intend to enter the professorate. As part of UCEA’s commitment to providing a support network for future educational leaders and professors, each Barbara L. Jackson Scholar will be paired with an experienced mentor to help them prepare for entry into higher education. This scholarship program is in honor of Barbara L. Jackson, a professor and leading scholar, for her contributions to the discipline. Brooks was also awarded $541.50 from UB’s Mark Diamond Research Fund in November 2004 for her empirical study on how to increase the involvement of urban African American parents in their children’s elementary public education. This grant will enable Brooks to complete her data collection and analysis.

Patricia Cavazos (Ph.D., 2004, CSEP) received a post-doctoral fellowship from the Division of Health Behavior Research at Washington University, St. Louis, MO for 2004-2005.
Bob Davies (ELP doctoral student), associate vice president for UB alumni relations, reports that UB Connect, a new secure and password-protected online community exclusively for UB alumni, is now available at www.alumni.buffalo.edu. GSE alumni are encouraged to register at this site where they will be able to manage their individual profile, sign up for lifetime e-mail forwarding, submit a Class Note (with a photo, if desired), as well as locate other GSE alumni easily and efficiently. In addition, alumni can visit the careers and networking module where they can post their resume or search for jobs. All information is confidential and registered users are able to opt out at any time.

Stacey Farber (CSEP doctoral student) received a $15,000 AERA (American Educational Research Association) dissertation grant award for her dissertation proposal “The Space Between: Roles Parents Play in their Children’s Educational Success (or Non-Success). Examining a Model of Parental Influence Across Family Race and Child Gender.”

Jeremy Finn (CSEP), whose research shows that smaller classes, particularly for poor and minority students, have a positive effect on achievement and graduation rates, was quoted in a Cincinnati Enquirer article on school district financial problems that threaten to cut hundreds of teachers in the next few years. The article is available at www.enquirer.com/editions/2004/10/31/loc_loc3cps.html

Robert Fritzinger (Ed.M., 1979, CSEP) is the new Chief Executive Officer at Zenhire, a New Hampshire firm that provides automated hiring solutions using technology re-engineered from Fritzinger’s other company, Microlanguage. It was a natural evolution as government contracts have slowed for the three-year-old Amherst firm, which developed intelligent language processing solutions for the military and other government customers. Zenhire officially launched its Zensuite Applicant Triage technology in November 2004. The technology automatically scans virtually any document, such as resumes, applications, and job postings, for relevance to job requirements, which will reduce the number of unqualified applicants considered by human resource professionals. Fritzinger is also a co-founder of Voice Technologies Group, a company he later sold to Intel.

Rebecca Gellman (Ph.D., 2004, CSEP) received a post-doctoral fellowship from the University of Rochester Medical Center for 2004-2005.

Kazuma Hatano (LAI master’s student) was awarded the Judith Melamed Fellowship Award for 2004. The Melamed Fellowship was established in 1989 by the family of Dr. Melamed, a professor who coordinated UB’s Foreign Student English Program and later taught in LAI’s TESOL program.

Benson Hoffman (Ph.D., 2004, CSEP) is a post-doctoral fellow at Duke University.

Steve Jacobson (ELP), Lauri Johnson (ELP), Corrie Giles (ELP), Rose Ylimaki (ELP), and Sharon Brooks (ELP doctoral student) presented three case studies for the International Successful School Leadership Project (ISSLP) Symposium at the annual meeting of the University Council for Educational Administration (UCEA), November 2004 in Kansas City, MO. In addition, Jacobson led a delegation of 10 educational administrators to South Africa for 10 days in November 2004 for the People to People Ambassadors Program. Fatima Morrell (ELP doctoral student) was among the trip’s participants.

Michael Johll (Ph.D., 1998, CSEP) is working with IQ4, a Florida company that wants to take golf instruction to a higher level via a revolutionary golf assessment tool. The company believes they can improve a golfer’s game through a comprehensive testing program. The assessment tool uncovers all phases of a golfer’s weaknesses and prepares an individualized learning environment to meet each golfer’s needs for improvement.
Lauri Johnson (ELP) has been appointed an Associate Member of the Centre for Leadership and Diversity, a new research center at OISE (Ontario Institute for Studies in Education)/University of Toronto dedicated to activities that advance the cause of equity, social justice, and democracy in matters of leadership and policy. She attended their organizational meeting on November 9th in Toronto.

Bruce Johnstone (ELP) has been appointed to the new “Management Council of Hiroshima University.” He is one of two non-Japanese members of the new governing/advisory bodies that are elements of the Japanese government’s new program to grant greater autonomy to Japan’s more than 90 national universities.

Richard King (Ph.D., 1976, ELP) was awarded a Fulbright Scholar grant to lecture and do research at the National Chengchi University in Taiwan in 2004-2005. King is a professor and director of the Division of Educational Leadership and Policy Studies at the University of Northern Colorado. He has written numerous professional journal articles and three editions of a textbook on school finance.

Jennifer Kleiner (Ph.D., 2004, CSEP) is a post-doctoral fellow at Tulane University.

Susan Kowalewski (ELP doctoral student) was awarded a doctoral research grant from UB’s Mark Diamond Research Fund in July 2004 for her dissertation “Women in Academic Dentistry: A Description Analysis of Leadership Among Women Deans, Department Chairs, and Program Directors.”

Jaekyung Lee (CSEP) received a grant from the Harvard University Civil Rights Project and the Southern Poverty Law Center to contribute and present his research paper for their joint project “Positive Interracial Outcomes in the Classroom.”

Michelle McClellan (CSEP doctoral student) received an APA (American Psychological Association) approved internship at the Buffalo Veterans Administration Hospital, Buffalo, NY for 2004-2005.

Rubie McKelvey (M.A., 1998, CSEP) and her husband Terrence received the Family Life Award from the Buffalo Urban League at their November 2004 gala, “Empowering Communities, Changing Lives,” for their assistance to urban youth, including sponsoring children in enrichment programs and on college tours, and providing ski instruction.

Fatima Morrell (Ed.M., 1992, LAI), elementary school principal at Stanton Academy Elementary School number 31, received the “40 Under Forty Award” in October 2004. The award is given each year by Business First, and this year, Morrell was one of 40 young leaders honored throughout Western New York. Prior to her current position, Morrell served as a Spanish and English teacher, as well as, an assistant principal in the Buffalo Public Schools for 11 years. Fluent in Spanish, she has studied abroad in Spain and Mexico, and South Africa where she focused on post-apartheid educational reform and national educational policies on HIV/AIDS. She is currently a doctoral student in ELP’s Educational Administration Program.

Monica Parikh (ELP doctoral student) has been hired to teach Asian American Experience at UB this spring. This course is cross-registered in the Asian Studies Program, the English Department, and the Center for the Americas. Parikh is also the president of UB’s Asian American Model Minority Myth Research Group.
Raechele Pope (ELP) received the Distinguished Service to Higher Education Award at the annual conference of the College Student Personnel Association (CSPA) of New York in October 2005. At the same conference, Pope, along with co-authors Amy L. Reynolds (Buffalo State College) and John A. Mueller (Indiana University of Pennsylvania), received the Significant Research/Publication in Higher Education Award for their book, Multicultural Competence in Student Affairs (Jossey-Bass).

Gerald Rising (professor emeritus, LAI) received the 2004 WNY Math Outstanding Mathematics Educator Award at the annual WNY Regional Mathematics Conference in October 2004. During his 26 years at UB, Rising ascended through the ranks to Distinguished Teaching Professor, SUNY’s highest academic honor. With emeritus status he continues to teach for LAI and UB’s Honors Program, give special lectures, and he remains involved with UB’s Gifted Math Program, which he co-founded in 1980.

Joan Scherer (Ed.M., 1970, LAI) has been teaching watercolor at the Art League of Marco Island, FL since 1991. Scherer’s success as an instructor has been with teaching the basics of watercolor and making it fun for her students, who are able to recognize their accomplishments. She has earned awards in pastel, oil, and watercolor.

Tom Schroeder (LAI) has been appointed to UB’s Social and Behavioral Sciences Institutional Review Board (IRB).

Josh Schiffman (Ph.D., 2004, CSEP) is a post-doctoral fellow at the University of Wisconsin counseling center.

Margaret Mary Wagner (Ed.M., 1974, LAI), vice president, Kaleida Health, has been listed by Business First as one of twenty-five “2004 Women Who Mean Business” in Western New York. Wagner’s accomplishments include being a national lecturer who spoke most recently at the American Medical Director’s Association. She has taught at the Tuzula Medical Center in Bosnia on a federal grant with Kaleida Health and is past president of the American College of Health Care Administrators for New York State. As a Fulbright Rhodes scholar, she studied at the University of Gujarat in Ahmedabad, India. She is also a preceptor for the State Department of Health for training nursing home administrators. Her community awards include Outstanding Leadership in the Cause of Charity Award from the Diocese of Buffalo; Testimonial for Leadership in Zeal for the 45th Annual Catholic Charities Appeal and Business First’s Health Care Heroes Award.
Jie Wang (ELP doctoral student) has published two papers on the website of the International Comparative Higher Education Finance and Accessibility Project (ICHEFAP):
A brief description of the Canadian higher education system (2003, April) is available at www.gse.buffalo.edu/org/inthigheredfinance/region_namerica_Canada_3.html

Addendum to the country profile on financing higher education in the United Kingdom (2003, July) is available at www.gse.buffalo.edu/org/IntHigherEdFinance/PDF/Addendum%20to%20UK%20country%20profile.pdf

A third publication, A case study of higher education finance in Taiwan (2004, July), will be available on the ICHEFAP website in the near future.
