The National Academy of Education/Spencer Dissertation Fellowship Program seeks to encourage a new generation of scholars from a wide range of disciplines and professional fields to undertake research relevant to the improvement of education.

QUALIFICATIONS

- All applicants must have completed all pre-dissertation requirements by June 1, 2013 and must provide a plan for completing the dissertation within a one or two-year time frame.
- Proposed project must be an education research project. NAE/Spencer funds studies that examine the efficacy of curriculum and teaching methods, however, we do not fund the initial development of curriculum or instructional programs.
- Fellowships are not intended to finance data collection or the completion of doctoral coursework, but rather to support the final analysis of the research topic and the writing of the dissertation.
- Applicants need not be citizens of the United States; however, they must be candidates for the doctoral degree at a graduate school within the U.S.
- Applications must be made by the individual applying for the fellowship; group applications will not be accepted.
- Applications will be judged on the applicant’s past research record, career trajectory in education research, and the quality of the project described in the application.

FELLOWSHIP AWARDS

- Fellows will receive $25,000 for one academic year.
- Fellowships must begin during the 2013-2014 academic year.
- Fellows will participate in professional development retreats with National Academy of Education members and other senior scholars.

Deadline to apply is October 5, 2012. Awardees will be notified in May 2013.

To apply, go to the National Academy of Education website, www.naeducation.org, for the 2013 application and guidelines.
